Enclosed is the proposed 2014 budget for the Aitkin County Historical Society. The Board of Trustees approved this budget at their May 22nd, 2013 Board of Directors meeting. Enclosed you will find a copy of our current financial assets.

In 2014 we are asking for $15,000, the same amount received in 2009 thru 2013 to help cover the costs for maintaining and running the Depot Museum and three other buildings. We are also asking that you continue to pay our Counties Trust Insurance.

In 2014 the Aitkin County Historical Society's yearly events and Depot Museum will impact over 5000 visitors from many states and foreign countries. Last year 4610 people visited our museum or attended on of our events. We sponsor an annual 6th graders' tour with 92 students attending this year. During the Cookie Walk and Spirit of Christmas Open House we attract many visitors. Our new web site at: aitkin.com/achs has helped create interest in our area. Our growing and expanding research department is attracting inquiries from people from all over the United States and Europe. All of these guests and visitors help support the businesses of Aitkin and Aitkin County.

As stated in our mission statement we collect, preserve and disseminate the history of Aitkin County. Most of our work is accomplished by dedicated volunteers. Our museum displays attract people to the Aitkin area and these people do spend money in the Aitkin area.

We are truly thankful for your support in 2013, and would appreciate your continued support of our operation in 2014.

Sincerely,

Gregory Leach, Administrator

Aitkin County is establishing its 2014 budget. As an organization that received funds from Aitkin County in 2013, we are asking for your assistance.

According to our records, your organization received appropriations in the amount of $10,000 in 2013. The economy is lagging and negatively impacting our residents/landowners/taxpayers. The County Board does not want to add to that burden by raising taxes. The Board has indicated that organizations should expect their appropriations to be at the 2013 level or below.

We would like to request the following information:

- The amount of money you are requesting from Aitkin County and a budget of how the money will be used
- A narrative that includes the services you provide to the taxpayers of Aitkin County
- A list of who these services are rendered to and approximately how many people are served
- Three new pieces of information that the County Board believes is necessary:
 - What is your total annual operating budget?
 - What is your year end Fund balance (capital and operating or other)
 - Where else does your funding come from - i.e., grants etc.

Please send us a copy of your current Board members and your organization's appropriate contact information. Several times each year we are asked who is on your committee. This way we can add it to our web site information.

Please have this information back to me prior to July 8th. If we don't hear back from you by July 8th we will use the 2013 number.

If you have any questions, please feel free to call me at (218) 927-7276. Thank you for your time and attention to this matter.

ACLARA Member Lake Associations:

The recent heavy rains and high water levels have caused many serious problems for lakeshore and other riparian landowners, as well as some inconveniences for lake users. Aitkin County imposed a series of no wake restrictions during this time, in order to minimize the damages to lake shores and property, and there was considerable disagreement about these restrictions.

As a reminder, the County initially placed no wake restrictions on all lakes; then, after determining actual lake levels, the County lifted restrictions on lakes that were less than 12 inches above their Ordinary High Water Mark (OHWM), and continued no wake restrictions on lakes that were at least 12 inches higher than their OHWM. Lakes that were 12-18 inches above this level were restricted to 300 foot no wake zones, while those with levels higher than 18 inches above the OHWM were completely no wake. A few weeks later all restrictions were lifted, even though many lakes remained higher than normal.

Now that we have experienced these extreme events and the resulting damages, The Aitkin County Lakes and Rivers Association wants to hear your thoughts about the County's no wake restrictions in general, and your evaluation of whether the restrictions were appropriate for your lake. Please poll your lake association members and send us a summary of their responses. Based on your comments, as well as input from local natural resource agencies, we plan to develop a set of recommendations to guide County policy and responses to future events like this.

Based on your experiences and observations, please comment on the following questions:

We have received 160 responses from residents of 15 lakes, as of 5/31/13

1. Should no wake restrictions be imposed when lake levels rise to extreme highs? If you answer no, please explain why.

Yes: 151 No: 9

2. If you approve of the concept of no wake restrictions, do you agree that the Ordinary High Water Mark is an appropriate benchmark for triggering restrictions? If you answer no, please explain an alternative benchmark.

Yes: 150 No: 7 ??: 3

3. If you approve of the OHWM as a benchmark, what level above this should trigger no wake restrictions?

Less than OHWL: 30 OHWL + 1-12": 62 OHWL + 13-24": 33 Lake Specific: 35

4. Do you think that 300 feet from shore is a useful no wake restriction, or should restrictions apply to the entire lake?

300' OK: 62 Entire Lake: 83 ??: 15

5. If no wake restrictions are required, how long should they remain in force?

Below Threshold: 73 Other: 87

6. Should violations of these no wake regulations result in warnings or fines?

Warnings: 54 Fines: 29 Both: 66 ??: 11

Q1: The vast majority (94%) of respondents support the concept of County-based no-wake restrictions, and they agree that the conditions in summer 2012 warranted action by the County. The very few negative comments downplay the significance of boat wakes compared to the effects of natural wave action.

Q2: Again, 94% agree with using the OHWL as a benchmark, although many did not know the definition of OHWL, or the elevation that is OHWL for their lake.

Q3: There is considerable disagreement among respondents as to what elevation relative to OHWL is an appropriate trigger for no-wake restrictions. More than half of the respondents (58%) think that a threshold of OHWL+ 12" is too high for their lake, and many commented that restrictions should be lake-specific.

Q4: Less than half of the respondents (39%) think that 300' is a useful no-wake restriction, either because it is difficult for boaters to judge 300', because it makes little sense on smaller lakes, or because a regulation based on distance from shore is difficult to enforce.

Q5: Many respondents (46%) think that no-wake restrictions should remain in force until lake elevations drop below the no-wake trigger, and that the restrictions were lifted too soon in 2012.

Q6: The vast majority (93%) of respondents believe that enforcement is necessary, while a majority (59%) agree that fines are warranted, at least after an initial warning.

Examples of some comments by respondents:

Negative/Opposed to No-wake Restrictions:

1. Natural waves do more damage than boat wakes
2. The solution to high water is to lift docks and sandbag shorelines
3. No-wake restrictions are bad for business and recreation

Positive/Approve of no-wake restrictions with suggestions to improve

1. Publicize the restrictions more often and widely so that everyone is informed
2. Bays should be no-wake longer than entire lake, have lower thresholds, or be permanently no-wake
3. Small lakes should have restrictions for the entire lake.
4. No-wake restrictions should be lake specific, not generic.
5. Wake boats should be banned from small lakes and bays of larger lakes.

AITKIN COUNTY LAKES WITH GAGES--HISTORICAL VS 2012 ELEVATIONS

- The Table shows the 28 lakes with DNR gauges; only 24 lakes reported 2012 elevation data. Some of the inactive gages should be moved to larger lakes that need gages.
- 13/24 lakes set their HRLs in 2012; why didn't the other 11 lakes also set their HRLs?
- We calculated "Potential to Rise" to be the HRL-OHWL for each lake, and the "Actual Rise in 2012" as the 2012 maximum-OHWL.
 - The range of "Potentials" is 0.6" to 44.5"; the range of 2012 "Actuals" is -1.2" to 32.4".
 - 6/24 lakes(25%) did not rise more than 6" above OHWL in 2012.
 - 9/24 lakes(38%) did not rise 12' or more above OHWL in 2012.
 - 6/24 lakes rose 12-18" above OHWL in 2012
 - 9/24 lakes rose more than 18" above OHWL in 2012
- The initial blanket restrictions in 2012 that covered all lakes was too protective for some lakes, while the secondary restriction (OHWL+ 12-18") was not protective enough for some lakes that never rise 12" or more.
- Currently, the OHWL is the only available benchmark that can be used to set no-wake restrictions. However, our analysis indicates that the OHWLs for some lakes may be outdated, due to changes in drainage patterns since the OHWLs were first recorded. Many of these OHWLs seem to be too high as indicated by the following:
 - Some lakes have very small "Potentials to Rise" or "Actual Rise in 2012", eg Round Lake(023) has a "Potential and Actual Rise of only 0.6";
 - Lone Lake did not reach its OHWL in 2012; and
 - 11/24 lakes did not set their HRLs in 2012, indicating that less water may be entering these lakes, compared to historical levels.

DNR hydrologists seem to have faith in the HRLs, except for those recorded before 1950, and they are cautious about using OHWLs to determine relative lake elevations. So, our challenge is to devise a system that will be protective of shorelines, property and ecological balance.

- In the short term, there seems to be no other benchmark than OHWL to use in setting no-wake restrictions. But a generic increment above OHWL will not protect our lakes uniformly. Residents of many lakes that did not rise 12" or more in 2012 complained of serious damage to their shorelines. Lakes with "Potentials to Rise" of less than 12", such as Round Lake(023), Long Lake(101), Blackface Lake, Lone Lake, etc, probably rose a considerable amount above their normal highs in 2012, but very little above their OHWLs.

One short-term alternative to generic restrictions would be to organize lakes into categories, based on their "Potentials to Rise", and to select a percentage of that "Potential" that is deemed safe. Lakes with small potentials probably have outdated OHWLs, and a safe level would be lower than OHWL. Lakes that have larger "Potentials" might use 50% of "Potential" as a safe level. Selected lakes in each category could be monitored and used as "Indicator Lakes" for that category.

Ultimately, the residents of a given lake should decide what level is too high for their situation, as they are the people who experience the impacts of high water.

ACLARA is willing to continue our analysis, to improve this evaluation process and to propose a final methodology for triggering no-wake restrictions, if some funding is provided.
