Township Officials:

Enclosed please find the 2015 Proposed Fire Department budget and the 2014 Allocation of Taxable Net Tax Capacity, along with a spreadsheet for your township showing 2009 -2015. This new spreadsheet shows comparison information for each year to show how manhours affect your allocation of expenses. For each of the years, we have shown what your allocation would have been if manhours were not used, if the previous five years of manhours were used, and if the previous seven years of manhours were used. The Fire Department has been using the previous three years of manhours in the calculation. The Fire Chief would like to entertain a discussion with township officials about the use of manhours in the calculations.

The City Council has set the annual meeting with the townships for:

Tuesday, January 21, 2014, from 6:00 p.m. to 7:00 p.m.

The Fire Chief will be present and he will provide a report on 2013, as well as addressing any questions you may have. The Fire Department will also host a reception in the Fire Hall after the meeting. Please plan to join them for refreshments.

Please share this information with your township supervisors and with anyone else who may be interested in attending.

If you should have any questions, please don't hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Kary Brophy Kathy Brophy City Clerk

Minimum Wage Earners Must Work 89 Hours per Week to Afford Modest Apartment in Minnesota

- MN Least Affordable in Midwest to Minimum Wage Workers for 3rd Year Running, Finds New County-by-County Report -

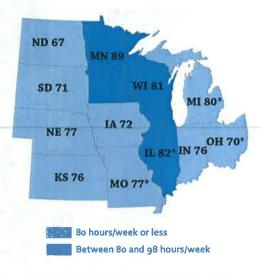

St. Paul, MN (March 11, 2013)- According to a national report released today, a minimum wage earner in Minnesota would have to work 89 hours per week – or hold 2.2 full time jobs – to afford a modest two-bedroom apartment. Of the twelve states in the Midwest, Minnesota has ranked the worst for affordability for minimum wage workers for three consecutive years.

However, if $9.50 per hour minimum wage legislation were passed in Minnesota, as has been proposed, the state would move from the worst position in the Midwest for low wage workers for housing affordability to the second best. Yet even with this new wage, affording a 2-bedroom apartment would require a minimum worker to work 68 hours a week.

The Minnesota Out of Reach 2013 report was released jointly by the National Low Income Housing Coalition (NLIHC), a Washington, D.C.-based housing policy organization, and the Minnesota Housing Partnership. The report provides rental affordability data for every state, metro area, and county in the US.

In order to afford the rent and utilities for a safe, modest 2-bedroom apartment in the private housing market, a Minnesota worker must earn $16.08 per hour, 40 hours a week, all year long. By contrast, the typical renter household in Minnesota earns the equivalent of $14.09 per hour. Federal minimum wage pays only $7.25 per hour.

Kris Jacobs, of the JOBS NOW Coalition, said, "This report underscores the urgency of raising the minimum wage in Minnesota. It is a tragedy that low-wage workers need to work 89 hours per week just to afford a place to live."

Chip Halbach, Executive Director of Minnesota Housing Partnership added, "When housing is unaffordable to renters, stress and limited budgets take a toll on children and their families. Strategic investments in housing and homelessness programs by Minnesota lawmakers can minimize the harm caused by high and rising rents throughout the state."

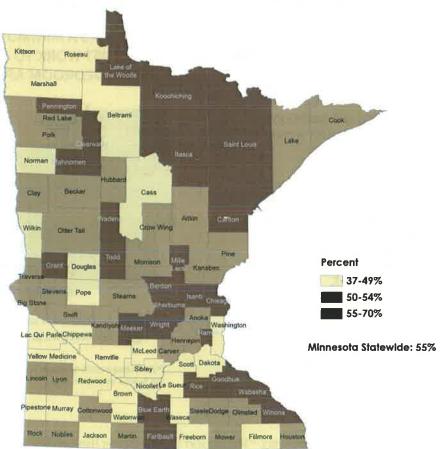

An estimated 55% of renters in Minnesota do not earn enough to afford a two-bedroom unit at the "fair market rent" where they live.

The Minnesota Housing Partnership (MHP - 2446 University Ave W. - Ste 140 | St. Paul, MN 55114) advances the preservation and creation of housing affordable to low- and moderate-income people as a means of strengthening communities and families. MHP is an equal opportunity provider and employer.

More Minnesota Out of Reach Facts:

- Twin Cities metro rents are the most expensive. A modest two-bedroom apartment requires a full time worker to earn $17.69 per hour year-round -- the most expensive in the state.
- The counties least affordable to renters, given the incomes they earn, are distributed throughout Minnesota (see map below). The counties with the highest estimated percent of renters unable to afford a modest two-bedroom apartment are Mahnomen (70% unable to afford), Winona (68%), Carlton (68%), Lake of the Woods (68%), Wadena (66%), and St. Louis County (62%). In the 7-County Metro, the county least affordable to the renters living there is Ramsey (60%).

Talking points:

• Our community is a good place to live and work. We should strive to keep up and improve our property values, maintain and build up our social and community participation, and take care of our parks, schools and other local advantages and amenities'.

Changes in regional transportation systems, in demographics, in the aging of local housing stock, and in economic conditions need to be considered in developing a better mix of housing choices.

- When people spend too much of their income on trying to maintain a home, they have less for other necessities, and they and their children are kept in a state of economic insecurity. The community as a whole deals with the instability and costs associated with homelessness, poverty and economic stagnation. Developing a range of housing choices, so that residents can be full participants in the local community and its economic life is needed in our communities.
- When employees travel long distances to work because they can't afford to live closer to their job, employers pay the cost of recruitment and retention of workers, lost productivity due to travel, while the community pays the cost of road maintenance and time lost to commuting. A full range of housing choices builds economic vitality, and competitiveness for attracting and retaining employers.
- The market isn't working when it forces too many people out. Imagine a supermarket that only sells cavlar and steak—for many working Minnesotans, that's what the housing market looks like. By increasing the variety and range of supply, in ways that meet current and future demand, we strengthen the housing market and strengthen the community.
- The collapse of the housing bubble and the subsequent foreclosure crisis demonstrates the importance, for everyone's economic security, of a balanced housing market, with a mix of prices and types of homes.
- Protecting the investment we have in our homes requires new solutions for economic development, transportation and housing.
- Identifying specific opportunities in land use, transportation and/or existing developments will allow the region to reap rewards by improving the mix of housing choices.
- Young people are the future of any community: we need to provide our children with the ability to find a place to live in this region if they choose to.
- A strong range of places to live allows young families to stay or move to town, older people to stay near friends and family, and people just starting out to build assets toward home ownership.

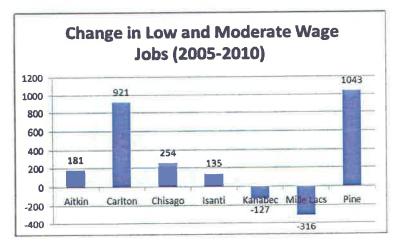

- The market for new homes is changing: more and more of the demand will be for smaller, more efficient and conveniently located homes, targeted to young professionals, empty-nesters, and active seniors.
- As new more efficient travel options are developed with work to keep energy costs down, a mix of housing that includes conveniently located, smaller homes with easy access to shopping, transportation and community amenities will be needed.

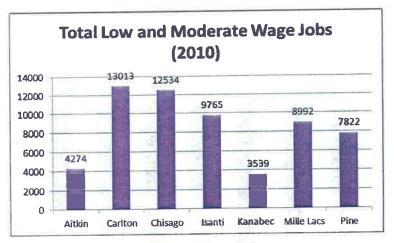

The people who live and work in the East Central region are invested in the future and its continued success. This can only happen by working collaboratively together on the regions' problems and opportunities, by bringing neighbors together to guide decisions about what, where and how to build.

To accomplish this, we need information about the current status of the regions housing stock and what each community and its members envision for the regions overall shared future.

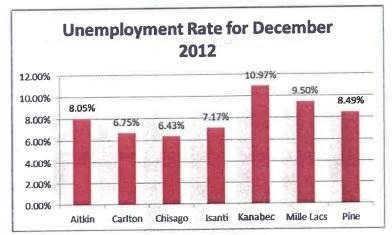

The conversations all start with a regional housing study.
